ATHS Student To Receive Award

By Giles Glithero
Special Report

Jon Bohn, a graduating Senior of Apache Trail High School will receive the "Spirit of Leona" award from The Leona Group - Arizona, one of the largest charter school organizations. Bohn receives this award for recognition of his perseverance, integrity, courage and high academic achievements. This award will be presented to Bohn on May 3, 2011 by Dr. William Coats, CEO and founder of The Leona Group, during a breakfast in honor of all the award winners from across the state.

One student was chosen from each of The Leona Group's 15 Arizona high schools to receive this honor. These students will join the ranks of other Leona Group high school students in Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, and Florida who also received this honor.

Jon Bohn came to Apache Trail High School in 2008 as a 10th grader with no high school credits. Although it took sometime for him to find his rhythm, it wasn't long until he set his sights on earning his high school diploma from ATHS.

"Jon is a self-reliant young man who has persevered through several life struggles to earn a high school diploma and be at the top of his graduating class. He demonstrates leadership skills by setting examples of how to do things right and not just talk about it. Jon looks to perfect any endeavor he takes on and strives to be the best, and to help others achieve at the same level. He is respected by his peers because of his selfless, humble approach to everything he does," says Greg Garland, teacher and coach.

Despite Bohn having moved several times during his high school career, he has always seemed to find his way back to his home-away-from-home, Apache Trail.

"He is always polite and has a good head on his shoulders despite what he has gone through. He exemplifies the saying, when times get tough, you get tougher," says Michele Harmon, registrar.

scholarship and pursue certification and a degree program in computers.

Just a freshman, Apache Junction's Seth Hanson ended up as the varsity team's starting shortstop the last few games and handled all five grounders hit his way for outs in last Thursday's season finale against Saguaro

Freshmen Season Wrap

The Prospector freshmen baseball team wrapped up their season last week and finished with a 7-9 overall record and only eleven players dressed out. Of course, two freshmen, Seth Hanson and Brett Darling, were promoted to the varsity squad during the season and two others moved up to junior varsity.

Coaches Craig Cameron and Chris Herrera said the freshmen players "should be a great base for consistency in the AJHS program as they mirrored the varsity and junior varsity fundamentals and workout plan established by varsity coach Doug Hanson." The coaches also wanted to thank the freshmen team parents for their support and added, "You (the parents) should be very proud of the dedication and attitudes the players displayed."

The freshmen team players included Daniel Hernandez, Justin Schrader, Matt
